FOR RANSOM FUND

Over $43,000 Raised in Boston to Rescue Miss Stone

OTHER CITIES RESPOND

Money Enough For Her Release Raised. Difficulties Still in Way of Securing Her Release Can Be Readily Overcome

Boston, October 7—As a result of the appeals of the pastors of various churches and the Christian public in general, yesterday, in behalf of the fund for the ransom of Miss Helen Stone, the American missionary captured by brigands in the Balkan mountains, the amount now in the hands of Kidder, Peabody & Co,. was increased to $43,959 at noon today.

Reports from other cities indicate a generaous response from every suorce.

Boston, Oct. 7.—The urgency of the case of Miss Stone the missionary held for ransom by brigands in Bulgaria brought together the members of the prudential committee of the American board for two hours yesterday. Later the committee issued a statement based upon the views of President Capin of the board and Secretary Smith, on the result of their visit to Washington on Saturday.

Both had interviews with President Roosevelt and the officials of the state department. It was made plain to them, they told the prudential committee, that the only certain way to secure the release of Miss Stone and save her life would be the payment of the ransom. The committee was informed that the government, by reason of constitutional

STARVATION FOLLOWS PLAGUE IN PANAY

Many Deaths Reported. Manila's War on Rats

Tacoma, Washington, Oct. 7—Steamer advices say that the Islands of Panay in the Philippines, which has been affected by a plague, is now visited by famine. One hundred and thirty deaths from starvation are reported at Capiz alone.

To prevent the plague from spreading, Manila has inaugurated a war against rats, and is paying two and a half cents for each rodent delivered to the board of health.

MAY BE MURDER MYSTERY IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 7—What may turn out to be a murder mystery was discovered this morning, when the body of a six years old boy was found in a bag in an alleyway at 261 West 22nd street. The clothes were also in the bag. Except a lceration of the abdomen there were no marks of violence.

The body was identified by Sydney Ryan, a cook of 300 West 21st street as his son Albert. He was last seen alive yesterday afternoon playing in front of the home. He knows no reason why the boy should be killed, as the family had no enemies.

ADMIRAL DEWEY DESIGNS BATTLESHIP

Washington, Oct. 7—Admiral Dewey has proposed to the navy department a design for a battleship which will carry a battery of four 12 inch guns in turretts, sixteen 8-inch guns in broadside and about 20 3-inch guns. In the opinion of the admiral, this design is superior to that submitted by either majority or minority of the board of construction.

TROLLEY CARS COLLIDE IN UTICA FOG

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 7—During the dense fog this morning there were three trolley car accidents in different parts of the city, caused by cars coming together. Four men were seriously injured in one, and several passengers hurt in one other. In the third, both cars were demolished, but none hurt,

WOMAN ACCUSED OF 14 MURDERS

Including Those of Four Husbands, Five Children and One Sister

Dayton, O., Oct. 7—Mrs. A. J. Witwer, a widow, was arrested today, suspected of 14 murders, including those of four husbands, five children, one sister and four members of different families where she was employed as housekeeper.

The last supposed victim was her sister. Her last husband died in April.

All the deaths were strangely alike, being very sudden, and evidences of arsenic and copper were found.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON WANTS THE CUP

And Is Determined to Have It If It Leaves This Country

New York, Oct. 7—Sir Thomas Lipton yesterday gave the first intimation that he would challenge again for the America's Cup.

"You may say for me," he said when seen on board the Erin, "that if the cup is to leave this country I am determined to have it. I am going to give Captain Sycamore and the crew of the Shamrock a banquet. It will probably be on Tuesday night. I feel that they done thir very best to rikae the boat win."

From saying more than this Sir Thomas Lipton wished to be excused. George L. Watson, the designer of the Shamrock II, had left the Erin only a few minutes before Sir Thomas made this announcement.

Dispatches from abroad say that Emperor William of Germany is by many looked upon as the next logical challenger.

Hodgson Read Correspondence

Washington, Oct. 7.—Only one session of the Schley court of inquiry was held Saturday. Practically the only witness of the day was Lieutenant Commander Hodgson, who was navigator of the flagship Brooklyn during the campaign of 1898. Almost his entire time was taken up with the reading of correspondence which has been published and this fact rendered the proceeding of comparatively little popular interest.

Just the Right Kind of Weather

Poplar Point, Man,. Oct. 7.—The royal train conveying the Duke of Cornwall and York and suite arrived here yesterday and was received by Senator Kirchoffer and Lord Minto. The guests are in excellent spirits and looking forward with great anticipation to the enjoyment of the shooting at Lake Manitoba. The weather is perfect and as game, particularly ducks, are plentiful, there are prospects of a splendid outing.

McKinley Fund Fattened

Toledo, Oct. 7.—A novel plan has been put into execution here by the McKinley Memorial association for the purpose of raising funds toward the erection of a McKinley monument. Voting booths were opened from 4 to 8 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of receiving voluntary subscriptions. A total of 6815 persons contributed, the proceeds amounting to $6801.90.

Killed by a Minister

Carbondale, Ills., Oct. 7.—A tragedy was enacted here at a time when the streets were crowded with people: John C. Brown was shot by Rev. Joseph McCammish, dying 40 minutes later. The two men had been bitter enemies for nearly a year, owing to Brown being jealous of the relations between his wife and the minister.

Hustled From Lynchers

Pendleton, Ore, Oct. 7.—A blacksmith of Alba named McWilliams maligned the late president McKinley Saturday. A mob secured a rope and started to lynch him. McWilliams fled to this place, having spent the entire night in running and walking.

Sheriff Killed Would-Be Lyncher

Ashville, Ala., Oct. 7.—Sheriff North, charged with the murder of John T. Blankenship during the attempt of a mob to storm the jail for the purpose of lynching a negro, was acquitted. The trial was held under the protection of the state militia.

Schooner In a Bad Plight

Milford, Conn., Oct. 7.—During a hard blow yesterday schooner Marion E. Rockwell pounded so hard that she pulled away part of the wharf to which she was tied. The crew of the vessel left her and the schooner ran ashore and has been pounding badly. No effort has been made to float the vessel.

Held Up Near Home

Natick, Mass., Oct. 7.—Within a few rods of his house, Victor Gibson, collector of the Royal Society of Good Fellows, was assaulted and robbed about 11:30 last night by two men, who secured $90 and escaped. The place of the robbery is within a short distance of the main street.

HODGSON ON THE STAND

Communication With Cubans on Shore Made as Soon as Signals Were Understood. Weather Heavy For the Ships

Washington, Oct. 7—The Schley court of inquiry resumed with Captain William M. Folger, commander of the cruiser New Orleans and Lieutenant M. L. Bristol, ensign of the Texas during the Santiago campaign, as the witnesses to be summoned.

Lieutenant Commander Hodgson was the first witness recalled to continue the questioning in regard to letters between him and Schley.

Hodgson was questioned at length on the shore off Cienfuegos, afterwards determined to be signals. He said he supposed they were signals of different branches of the Spanish forces on shore. When Captain McCella arrived with information as to the meaning of them, he was immediately dispatched to shore to communicate with the Cubans.

He said the progress of the squadron between Cienfugoes and Santiago was impeded by heavy weather and that the smaller boats were suffering badly.

Hodgson then continued his description of the battle of Santiago, from where he concluded Friday.

He said the Brooklyn did all she could to get into action just as quick as steam would carry her there.

She commenced firing as soon as the first gun on the port bow would bear and kept the port battery firing until she turned with her port helm through the arc, using the aft guns until all the starboard guns to bear.

She got around as quickly as she could with the port helm, until she almost paralleled the course of the leading Spanish vessel.

When the Oregon came up we were engaged with three Spanish vessels Captain Clark cried "God bless the Oregon."

After that we told the Oregon where her shots struck and she told us where ours struck.

NEW GOVERNOR OF PORTO RICO

Washington, Oct. 7—The president appointed Charles Hartzell, colored, secretary of Potro Rico, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Secretary Hunt to be governor.

NINETEEN LIVES LOST AT SEA TODAY

DEAN WILL BE NAMED

In the Senatorial Convention Tomorrow by Mr. Hall of Williamstown

AN AGREEMENT REACHED TODAY

Dean Will Serve Only One Year and Will Support Mr. Hall Next Year. Friends of Both Men Meet the Governer

The name of George Z. Dean of Cheshire will be presented to the republican senatorial convention in this city Thursday afternoon as a candidate for the senatorial nomination by A. E. Hall of Williamstown.

This announcement was made in Pittsfield today, as a result of negotiations between friends of the two candidates.

Governor Crane has been instrumental in bringing about the understanding, it is said, and the contest between the two is ended.

Mr. Hall will ask that the nomination of Mr. Dean be made unanimous.

This agreement has been reached with the tacit understanding that Mr. Dean will ask for the office only one year, and that next year Mr. Hall will be a candidate with Mr. Dean's support and that of his friends.

WILL NOT WINTER IN DUGOUT

Calvin Sherman Thinks His Summer Home Too Far Away

Calvin Sherman is still living in his "Dugout" near the fish pond, where he has had his abode since last May, but says he does not expect to spend the winter there. His son, who lived with him through the summer, has secured work and left the cave, and Mr. Sherman says he intends to do likewise before the season of snows sets in. A stroller who happened to be passing the region of the cave yesterday found Mr. Sherman cutting wood and heating up his underground apartment with a blazing fire in a tin pan. The smoke found its way out through the low door in clouds While talking with the visitor about this queer way of living Mr. Sherman went into his den and bunked down on his blankets, and appeared to be very comfortable in spite of the smoke, which frequently compelled the visitor to back off to catch his breath. An old oilcloth has been spread over the top of the cave, and Mr. Sherman said he had no trouble from water. He thinks he would have no trouble in keeping warm in his underground home in winter, but says it is too far from the base of supplies for comfort when the snow lies deep on the ground. Mr. Sherman is a shoemaker by trade and hopes to get work and live in the city during the winter.

Died at Norfolk

Mrs. John A. Bond received a dispatch Saturday afternoon announcing the death at Norfolk, Va., of her aunt, Mrs. George S. Hubbard of Berkley, Va., formerly of this city. Mrs. Hubbard fell some weeks ago and sustained a fractured hip, and was removed by the advice of physicians to a hospital at Norfolk; where she died.

Mrs. Hubbard ,who was in her 70th year, was the daughter of Jenks and Betsey Kimbell and was born and reared in North Adams. She was living here when she was married to Mr. Hubbard, but they left the town about 40 years ago for Virginia, where they continued to live from that time. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Ernest West of Berkley, Va., and one grandson. She also leaves four nieces in this city, Mrs. John A. Bond, Mrs. C. H. Berry, Mrs Mary Messier and Mrs. Charles Chase. The dispatch stated that the body would be sent from Norfolk Saturday night. The body arrived today, but arrangements for the burial have not been made.

New Evidence

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 7.—The court of appeals having granted former Secretary of State Powers and James Howard new trials, the case of the former will be called here next Tuesday. Powers was convicted as accessory to the murder of William Goebel in January, 1900, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Howard was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. It is generally believed that both sides have secured much new evidence.

Fire Caused $280,000 Loss

Alleghany, Pa., Oct. 7.—Fire in the Pittsburg Clay Pot works yesteray damaged the plant to the extent of about $280,000, injured six men and enforced an idle ness of several months upon a force of 165 workmen. The injured men were firemen who were on the roof of the boiler house when the wall fell. Non of them will die. The fire originated in the boiler room from an unknown cause.

Church Partition Fell In

Reading, Pa., Oct. 7.—A dozen people were injured yesterday in St. Peter's Catholic church by the fall of a temporary partition erected on the inside of the outer wall during alterations of the building. A great quantity of timber and bricks fell inward upon a portion of the congregation. The main altar and many pews were broken.

Overcoats

We've been talking for several days about our elegant Fall Suits, and now just a word about overcoats.

Fashionable, long, nobby, dressy Overcoats, cut full and large with broad shoulders and up to date in every particular. Medium and dark Oxford mixtures in Cheviots, Vicunas and Friezes will be the favorites this season. For the past two weeks we've been getting in hundreds of these coats. Every one made expressly for us. Every one made to win us trade. We see three or four cold winter months ahead. Courage is the Commander of trade. A hunter for greater values or larger variety will go home empty handed.

MISS STONE'S RELEASE

restriction, is unable to pay the ransom. The committee was also made aware of the fact that the American board has no money with which to save Miss Stone. The only practical way, therefore, was shown to be a popular subscription, which already has been started.

The committee approved of this and began sending telegrams to many parts of the country urging subscriptions. The committee says that in view of the spirit with which the appeal is received there is strong ground for the hope that the amount will be obtained speedily.

President Capen says that the government at Washington, both the president and the state department, have done, are doing, and will continue to do, all that is in their power to procure the release of Miss Stone.

Just how much money has been given to the fund for the ransom of Miss Stone is not known. Those directing the effort in her behalf think that the figure is fully $100,000, if not the necessary amount, which is $10,000 more. In Boston and vicinity the amount already on hand from a comparatively small number of sources reaches nearly $30,000, and there are a host of shurches to hear from.

STRIKE IS POSTPONED

Fall River Textile Operatives Got Into a Tangle

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 7.—The threatened industrial strike among the mills in this city for an advance of 5 percent in wages has been postponed for two weeks, by vote of the Textile Council The secretaries of the various unions say that the movement was supposed to be unanimous. The carders and loom fixers understood that the agreement was to be unanimous or the vote to strike would take no effect. The other unions understood that the majority was to rule, but if one union stood out against the strike it would be declared off. On these two different understandings the unions took their votes. In view of this difference of understanding, the members of the Textile Council thought it was wise to defer all action as far as ordering a strike was concerned until two weeks from today.

When the announcement was made that the council had called the strike off for two weeks, the manufacturers seemed indifferent. They said it was the only thing the operatives could do under the circumstances and they thought it would have been much better had the leaders come out and declared the strike off altogether instead of putting in the two weeks clause. They pointed out that in the next two weeks the situation will be in a very unsettled condition, all kinds of business will be poor on account of the uncertainty, and unseen complications may ensue. Beyond that they refused to express any opinion.

Secretary Whitehead of the council said that the action of the union in declaring the strike postponed was not to be taken as an indication that they admitted they had been defeated, but that the affair had been simply postponed until the present misunderstanding could be straightened out. It is expected a meeting of the Textile Council will be held during this week to consider plans of action to be taken at the end of the proposed term.

Death In "Cough Medicine"

Gloversville, N. Y., Octtt. 7.—John McNab, one of the wealthiest men in this section, died yesterday, aged 86, from the effects of a dose of carbolic acid taken by mistake for cough medicine.

City Officials Indicted

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The grand jury voted two indictments against Robert E. Burke, city oil inspector. The charge is embezzlement of the funds of his office. In one instance a shortage of $14,000 is alleged, and in the other $9000 is said to be missing.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. Anna Coleman died at Somerville, Mass., as a result of being enveloped in flames by the overturning of an oil stove.

John Mayher, one of the most prominent citizens in western Massachusetts, died at his home in Easthampton, aged 70. He was president of the First National bank, and director of the Nashwomock and Glendale Manufacturing companies.

The factory and outbuildings of Moseley & Stoddard, Rutland, Vt., were burned to the ground, causing a loss of $40,000. It is believed that the fire was of incendiary origin.

While crossing Watuppa pond at Fall River, Mass., Christian Dixon, aged 45, became alarmed at the filling of the boat during a squall and jumped overboard. He was siezed with cramps and drowned.

Harvard's football team has lost the services of Jennings, the former Dartmouth captain, and who was looked upon as the mainstay back of the varsity line. He is deemed ineligible on the ground that he has done professional coaching at Dartmouth.

LOWELL WOMAN DYING

As a Result of Attack by Man Who Was Madly In Love

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Elizabeth Casey, about 32 years of age, was murderously assaulted by a man alleged to be Mr. Cooley, who has been paying attentions to Mrs. Casey of late. The doctors say there is very slight chances for her recovery.

H. Cooley is still at large and the police do not pretend to have any knowledge of his whereabouts. Mrs. Casey is suffering from hemorrage of the brain and the doctors say she cannot recover.

The police are in possession of evidence in the form of letters and interviews that show Cooley to have been extremely jealous of Mrs. Casey and that he wished death would relieve him of a sorrow that seemed too great to bear. That he was madly inlove with Mrs. Casey there is no doubt.

Within the last three weeks Cooley tried to obtain a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Casey on the grounds that she had stolen his property. Investigation by the police showed that he had no grounds on which to make application for a warrant. Mrs. Casey at that time showed the police threatening letters which she had received from Cooley and she was advised to apply for a warrant, but she said she did not want to have any more trouble with him.

RICHES IN PHILIPPINES

Will Not Be of Benefit to Us For a Generation or Two

Denver, Oct. 7.—Congressman Shafroth, who has been travelling in China and the Philippines for the past four months has reached home. Speaking of the conditions in the Philippines he said:

"Peace has been practically restored There is still a little insurrection in Samar, but aside from that, everything is fairly quiet. I do not believe, however, that the retention of the islands will be profitable, as the government will have to expend a great deal of money on them, even in times of peace. It costs now between $60,000,000 and $75,000.000 a year to keep the soldiers there, and even if the number is reducedto 30,000 the expense will still be greater than the profits from the islands will warrant. The islands are unquestionably rich, but their benefit to the United States will not materialize until a generation or two shall have passed and the need for an army in the island shall have gone."

Mr. Shafroth looked into the silver question in the Philippines and will submit a plan to congress for the reopening of the mint at Manila and the establishment of free coinage of silver of the islands. Mexican and English silver coins are now circulated in the islands, and as American bills and gold command a premium in China and neighboring countries most of the American money is now driven out of the country.

Does She Lose Speed by Running?

"Did you ever," asked an observant and somewhat cynical citizen, "take note of a woman running? I thought not. Well, I have, and I can tell you for a fact that a woman never runs quite as fast as she could walk. Sometimes, when women are hurrying to catch a car or something of that sort, they think they will get over the ground faster if they run; but, so far from accelerating their progress, it rather retards it. All the same, they seem to think they are going a great deal faster than they could walk, and perhaps that answers the purpose just as well. Sometimes I think they know better, but feel that they must make a bluff at speed. At any rate, when you have a good opportunity to estimate a running woman's speed just do it, and you will be convinced that I am not telling fairy stories."—Utica Observer.

What It Means to Be "Educated."

Any man is educated who is so developed and trained that, drop him where you will in the world, he is able to master his circumstances and deal with the facts of life so as to build up in himself a noble manhood and be of service to those that are about him. That is what education means; that is what it is for. Knowledge of foreign tongues, a list of historic facts concerning the past, information poured into a man's brain—these things are not education. There are learned fools!—Rev. Minot Savage.

Where Bullets Flew.

The late General Wauchope used to tell a story of two Gordon highlanders, one of whom was going into battle for the first time. The crack of rifles was heard in front, and the bullets began to fly. The recruit, feeling that his hour had come, shouted to his mate in the first line:

SAMPSON DISAPPOINTED

At Non-Participation In Engagement With Cervera

THE OPINION OF ALGER

Regarding the Admiral's Conduct Toward the Army Before Santiago —An Interesting Chapter on the Miles-Egan Beef Controversy

New York, Oct. 7.—General Alger's book on the Spanish-American war will be issued next Thursday.

Opening his book with the survey of the Cuban situation in 1898, General Alger says: "The thoughtful observer of public events during the years of 1895-1897 need hardly be reminded that both the Cleveland and McKinley administrations sought by every honorable means to avoid complications with Spain though protesting against the conditions prevalent in Cuba."

He then comments upon our unpreparedness for war at that time and the splendid spectacle of the country's response to the government's ultimatum upon Spain. He then leads the reader through hurried preparations for war. The account of the march on Santiago is graphically pictured and prepares one for the fight at Caney and San Juan.

The "round robin" incident comes in for a fair share of space. While the negotiations for surrender were pending before Santiago, the general officers of Shafter's army met and signed a "round robin," which was given out for publication. Of the "round robin" itself, General Alger says he has no criticism to offer. But he does criticise the publication of it, saying that it was one of the most unfortunate and regrettable incidents of the war.

General Alger reviews at length the difficulties between General Shafter and Admiral Sampson and quotes many official letters. He concludes this chapter in these words: "It is difficult to account for Admiral Sampson's seeming attitude towards the army during the operations before Santiago, as well as to excuse him for his contradictory statement, subsequently made in his official report. After July 3 the admiral's conduct may have been due to the keen disappointment resulting from his nonparticipation in the engagement with Cervera's squadron. Possibly he felt that Shafter's request for a conference on the morning of July 3, innocent though it was, was responsible for his being deprived of the honor of actively participating as commander-in-chief in one of the most remarkable victories in the annals of naval warfare."

Of the Miles-Egan controversy on the alleged furnishing of "embalmed beef" to the army, General Alger says: "The commission appointed by the president at my request to investigate the conduct of the war department in the war with Spain met on Sept. 24, 1898. On Dec. 21 the major general commanding the army of the United States appeared before the commission and made his statements with respect to the beef furnished to the army during the war.

"Although the commission had been sitting nearly three months the charges with respect to canned and refrigerated beef were now made for the first time; and, stranger and more inexcusable and more unsoldierly still, during all those months, with this pretended knowledge of facts which, if they existed, should have been made known to the secretary of war, for the protection of the army. General Miles had never mentioned the subject.

"General Miles seemed to be pleased with the notoriety which his startling statement before the commission and his subsequent newspaper interview gave him; for again, on March 31, 1899, in New York city, he published additional charges. This unmilitary and questionable method of making in public grave and scandalous charges regarding a brother officer and the work of his department—charges which subsequent and careful investigation proved both unwarranted and untrue—seemed to appeal to certain characteristics of the major general commanding to which the question to which reference here would be ont of place.

"If we were to believe written evidence to the contrary it does not appear that General Miles was even honest in making his dilatory charges that the tinned beef was issued as the 'pretense of an experiment' and that it was not a part of the ration. On June 17, 1898, his most confidential staff officer signed a letter by 'direction of the major general of the army' instructing the depot commissary at Tampa to furnish to General Nunez 10,644 pounds of canned roast beef, to be issued from the subsistance stores of the army. If we are to accept the reading of this letter as correct, it proves that General Miles knew that canned fresh beef was a part of the ration; that he knew there was a large quantity of it at Tampa for issue to the troops; and that he so far approved of its use as to direct that the ration be furnished in large quantities to our allies."

THREE NEWSPAPER MEN

Implicated In Case of Kidnapping and Robbery

ONE ACTED AS A DECOY

Assisted by a Barber, They Robbed a Woman of Jewelry and Money After Keeping Her Prisoner For Many Days Without Food

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—Charged with kidnapping a woman and holding her a prisoner for four days, robbing her of jewels worth more than $2000 and compelling her to sign bank checks for large sums of money, is the story which the police unfolded here yesterday when they announced the arrest of four men, all of whom are charged with complicity in the crime.

The men now locked up are Howard K. Sloan, an unemployed reporter; Henry Wallace, society editor of one of the morning newspapers; J. K. Findlay, stenographer in the business office of another morning paper, and Oscar S. Dunlap, a barber employed in one of the most prominent shops in the city. The victim is Mrs. Mabel Goodrich of North Tenth street. The four men were arrested Saturday night.

Last Monday Mrs. Goodrich went to police headquarters and told a story of kidnapping and robbery so daring that the police at first doubted its truth. She said that a young man, who represented himself as a resident of Germantown last Wednesday week, proposed a drive through Fairmount park. She went out with him in a carriage with a pair of richly caparisoned horses and with a coachman on the box wearing stylish livery. At a lonely place in Fairmount park the carriage was stopped by a man whom she said represented himself as D. Clarence Gibbony, the secretary and attorney of the Law and Order society of Philadelphia. This man, she went on to say, told her that he had a warrant for her arrest on the charge of keeping a disorderly house, but that the matter could be fixed up.

He was invited into her carriage and the next moment she was gagged and blindfolded. The men conveyed her into a building where a fire engine and a hook and ladder truck were standing. She was kept a prisoner from Tuesday night until Friday night without anything to eat or drink, and was then taken on another long drive, blindfolded, to a house where she was kept from Friday until Monday.

In the latter place the men, who were masked, stripped her of her jewelry and at the point of a revolver compelled her to sign bank checks for various sums of money she had deposited in the Third National bank. The men finally put her out of a carriage about a mile from her house.

The detectives secured several clues which led to them to a fire house in Wayne, 15 miles from Philadelphia. The fire company is a volunteer organization and the key to the place was kept in the nearest dwelling. The nearest house was occupied by a family named Findlay and there the police learned that one of the sons was J. K. Findlay. Getting a description of him the police returned to the city and found the young man, who is 21 years old, in the office where he is employed. He was charged with the crime and broke down and implicated three others.

Findlay said that he had impersonated the coachman; that Sloan, the unemployed reporter, acted the part of attorney Gibbony; that the barber played the part of the rich Germantown resident; and that Wallace, the society editor, had rented a house in Germantown, where Mrs. Goodrich was to have been held captive. Sloan, the police said, conceived the whole plot. He was to have begun work today on the same paper on which Findlay was employed. Wallace has been society editor of the paper on which he was employed for only two weeks.

Crooked Work at Polls

Boston. Oct. 7.—So overwhelming was the evidence against Arthur W. Joslin and Herbert R. Averill, who were charged with unlawfully marking ballots and inducing persons to vote illegally at a recent Republican caucus, that their counsel offered no witnesses for their defense. Judge Bolster thereupon sentenced Averill to 1½ years in the house of correction, and Joslin to one year in the same institution. Both appeared and furnished bonds for their appearance in the higher court.

Misery Ended by Suicide

Woonsocket, R. I., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Pamelia Belanger, who although but 17 years old had been married two years, committed suicide yesterday by taking paris green. She had not lived with her husband for over a year, and two weeks ago when he asked her to return to him she refused. It is said she had been brooding over her family troubles. She left a letter bidding her husband good bye.

House Wrecked by Dynamite

Boston, Oct. 7.—An overcharge of dynamite fired by blasters in a ledge in the rear of a house at Dorchester, shook the neighborhood like an earthquake and wrecked a dwelling house, seriously injuring Mary J. Feely and slightly injuring two others. Many of the windows in the houses in the neighborhood were blown out and many persons were cut by flying glass.

Fatality In Boston Harbor

Boston, Oct. 7.—Three Chelsea men returning froma smelting trip in a 20-foot sloop were capsized in the upper harbor yesterday when a squall struck their boat. One of them, John T. Bonney, aged about 60, was so exhausted by his struggle in the chilly water that he died. The other men were rescued, but suffered severly from the cold and excitement.

Body Found In Woods

Blackstone, Mass., Oct. 7.—Woodchoppers found the body of a man in the woods at Chestnut hill, which is believed to be that of Charles Wood, for years a demented inmate of the town asylum, from which he made his escape Sept. 1. He was seen wandering about by farmers of that neighborhood two weeks ago.

CHAS. H. FLETCHER, New York City.

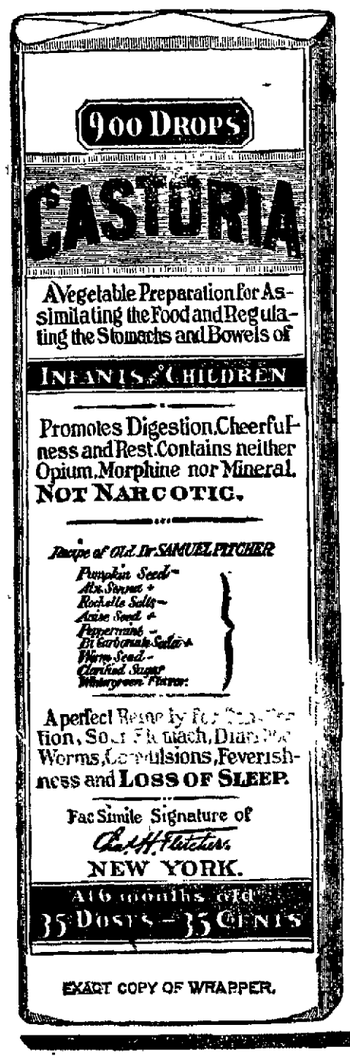

Dear Mr. Fletcher:—I wish to congratulate you on your numerous victories over counterfeiters and imitators of Castoria, and trust the time is not far distant when these inferior and dangerous mixtures will be entirely suppressed.

You are right when you say in your advertisements that it is "Experience against Experiment."

I feel it to be an outrage, and an imposition upon the parents of little children that my name should be associated with imitations of Castoria, dangerous to the health and life of these little ones who too often fight their battles for life in vain.

Let me again commend you for the high standard you have maintained in the preparation of my prescription, and I confidently believe it is due to this scrupulous integrity you are indebted for the wonderful sale of Castoria to-day and the steady growth it has had since I gave you the details of its manufacture in my laboratory thirty-three years ago.

CAREER OF CZOLGOSZ.

President's Assailant Avowed Anarchist, but Great Coward.

FOLLOWER OF EMMA GOLDMAN.

He Accepted Her as the Leader of Anarchy and Placed Her Teachings Above All Others—Father Says His Son Ought to Hang For His Deed. Talk With His Stepmother.

The home of Leon Czolgosz, the assassin who shot President McKinley, in Cleveland and its environments were of just the right sort to encourage in his rather weak nature the ideas which led to the dreadful culmination in Buffalo.

The home is a humble one at 306 Fleet street, in the center of the poorest section of the Polish colony, and in almost every house in the immediate neighborhood the red flag of anarchy is the only flag that is respected.

Standing within a stone's throw of the Czolgosz home is White Eagle hall, the headquarters of the most violent group of anarchists in the United States and where murder for several years has been secretly and openly advocated as the only remedy for social conditions which prevent true liberty as such liberty is defined by the anarchist.

The streets, houses, saloons and little halls near by reek with the blackest sentiments and darkest deeds, and no one in the anarchistic group was filled with a more bitter hatred of existing things, rulers and governments and no one has uttered more violent sentiments against capitalists and the rulers of nations among these vicious vipers than Leon Czolgosz, the assassin, says the New York Journal. Two years ago Paul Czolgosz, the father of Leon Czolgosz, was the proprietor of the White Eagle hall. He had run the place for several years.

The hall is now dirty and bare, and the place is not kept as it was when Leon Czolgosz acted as janitor and looked after the place that he cared for more than anything else on earth.

It is related that Leon slept very often in the hall where the tales of blood, venom and hatred of the human race ran from black lips and still blacker hearts, so that he might be near to the spring of vicious sentiments.

In this place Leon Czolgosz listened to the pleas in favor of assassination from Emma Goldman, and from the day that she first appeared in White Eagle hall Leon Czolgosz accepted her as the leader of anarchy and placed her teachings above all others. About two years ago Paul Czolgosz gave up the saloon and went to live upon a small farm near Cleveland with several members of his family.

Leon did not take to work on the farm any more than he did to work in the city. He sought solitude and seemed to be always ill at ease when in the presence of others and particularly when strangers were around. He spent most of his time alone in the heavy woodland, studying the pamphlets and literature circulated by Emma Goldman and other anarchists. He was naturally a coward and afraid of his shadow.

He would not fight or defend himself, and the only time that he would show any sign of the real temper which led him to Buffalo on his horrible mission was when his pet ideas of social relations were attacked. During his stay in the country, as he studied the doctrines of anarchy in solitude, he became more morose and wore upon his face the expression of an animal at bay.

Paul Czolgosz has a large family of children. He is living with his second wife. Paul Czolgosz, the father of the assassin, seemed to be deeply impressed by the enormity of the crime. He said: "I cannot believe that my son Leon did this terrible act, although it must be true. There cannot be any excuse for such a crime, and, although he is my son, he ought to be hanged.

"I do not believe that he did this thing of his own accord. He could not originate such a crime. He must have been influenced by others and have been sent to do this deed. He was a good boy. He could be easily led. He was a tool of some one having a stronger mind. I do not know of the existence of any plot among anarchists in which my son was involved. I know my son's disposition well. He is not strong and would not think of killing any one unless it was suggested and forced upon him in some way that he could not resist."

Mrs. Czolgosz talked freely, and apparently there was no effort on her part to conceal anything in the history of her stepson and family.

"It must have been two months ago that Leon left home, and the last that we heard from him was that he was in Indiana. This was about two weeks ago, and he wrote that he was going far away. He did not say where he was going. He did say that we would probably never hear from him again. This was strange, of course, but Leon had the right to go where he liked. I cannot believe that he is the man who shot the president."

When assured that there was no doubt that it was her stepson who had attempted to kill the president and that he had become an anarchist through the lectures and teachings of Emma Goldman and other leaders, she appeared to be greatly surprised.

"I do not believe," said Mrs. Czolgosz, "that Leon was smart enough to be interested in these things. He never read any books on anarchy at home, and I do not believe that he could understand them. No one ever thought Leon was quite right in his mind. He was dull and was not interested in books. He had a severe illness about three years ago, and he has never been well since.

"He worked in the Cleveland Rolling mill until he was taken sick, and he has not done anything since. We moved on a farm at Stop 14, on the Chagrin Falls line, but there was nothing that Leon was fitted to do on the farm. My husband was kind to Leon and never forced him to do anything. He was not like other boys. If he shot the president, he must have been insane. He was a timid boy.

"There was no murder in him. He was the biggest coward I ever saw. Everybody knew that he did not have any spirit or courage. He would run away from his own shadow. He would not fight like other boys, and if a boy should threaten him he would run away. He was always bashful when any one was around, and I don't see how he could have gone into such a big crowd.

"Leon never complained about the government or anything. He was not discontented and seemed to be satisfied. He often said that he was not big and strong enough to work like other boys. He knew his brothers and father would take care of him. He liked this country. He never showed any ill will against the rich or the president. I cannot understand how he ever came to be an anarchist. He always thought his brother Michael was a great man because he was a soldier, fighting for his country. It is so strange that Leon could have changed so quickly and become so bad that he would try to kill the president."

LUDLOW IN CUBA.

How the Well Known Soldier Became a General.

The late General Ludlow in social circles was a modest and unassuming gentleman, but in affairs pertaining to the army was energetic and aggressive as a soldier should be. In this respect he differed very much from the late General Charles G. Bartlett, who was a victim of the Northfield ferryboat disaster. Bartlett had such a kindly disposition that his friends used to say they did not see how he ever became a general. They thought when he came in front of the enemy he would be likely to say, "Boys, let's have a good dinner and talk this over instead of fighting about it."

Ludlow was an engineer and went down to Cuba to be assigned to duty by General Shafter. After the army landed he discovered that it was going to be a question of fighting, and his services as an engineer were not likely to be needed, so he asked General Shafter to assign him to a brigade in the line. "Why," said Shafter, "I thought you were an engineer!" "So I am, general," replied Ludlow, "but I am also a cavalryman, an artillerist and an infantryman, as every well trained soldier is." "Well, what do you want?" said Shafter. "I would like to be assigned to a brigade," Ludlow replied. "Very well. Come around to see me tomorrow morning," said Shafter and turned away. The next morning Ludlow appeared promptly at Shafter's headquarters and asked if that assignment had been arranged. Meanwhile Ludlow had been around the camps and found that in one of the brigades of Lawton's division the death of one officer might result in the brigade being left in command of an inexperienced volunteer. The case was too important to be trifled with. He said to General Shafter that he had come to get that assignment. Shafter replied brusquely, as was his way, "Colonel Ludlow, I have no brigade to give you." Colonel Ludlow said, "Well, General Shafter, I will call around tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock for an assignment to the First brigade of the Second division of your corps." Shafter replied in effect that he was in command of the corps and would decide upon the proper commanders for his brigades. Not to be baffled, Colonel Ludlow said firmly: "General Shafter, I will report here at your headquarters at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning for assignment to the First brigade of the Second division of your corps. Good morning." The next morning very early an orderly brought an official assignment from General Shafter to Colonel Ludlow to take command of the First brigade of the Second division. This brigade was the one which in the battle of El Caney held the Spaniards in the trap while Chaffee's brigade and Capron's battery hammered them into submission. Shafter said afterward that he was very glad that at the critical period of the battle Colonel Ludlow was in the very spot selected by himself. GEORGE L. KILMER.

VEGETABLES IN ALASKA.

Dr. Allen Predicts That Territory Will Raise Its Entire Supply.

Dr. E. W. Allen, assistant superintendent of experiment stations conducted by the agricultural department, has just returned after a ten weeks' tour of inspection of the stations in Alaska. Dr. Allen reports, according to the Washington Post, that all the hardy vegetables are being grown there, and he predicts that the time will come when Alaska will grow a sufficient supply of them.

He also says that wheat, oats, barley and rye have been matured at the stations, and he thinks it practicable to raise beef for the home market. He states that there is considerable inquiry for land along the coast from people living in northern Europe and predicts that the time will come when many of them will find more comfortable homes there than they now have.

Good Cookery

EVERY DAY HINTS.

By Mrs. Barbara Sadler.

Perhaps the most trying thing to the housewife is the fact that she has to plan and in many cases prepare a dinner every day. "What can I get to eat?" is a problem she has to solve until at times it seems almost unbearable. It is impossible to meet a case like that in this service, but I can give you a few hints for every, or better, any day that may be of service to the weary sister.

First let me give you a novelty in the shape of a cucumber sauce that will keep for weeks and is always a reliable, emergency relish: Peel, quarter lengthwise and scrape out the seeds, then grate or put through a meat-grinder, and drain; add to one quart of this pulp two seeded and minced green peppers, one tablespoonful of salt, a grated onion, one level saltspoonful of cayenne and one pint of strong vinegar. Heat jars (to drive out the air) fill with the sauce and seal.

Another thing that it is always wise to have on hand is cranberry jelly and this is an excellent way to prepare it: To one quart of berries (the Cape Cod berries are always excellent) add one-half cupful of water, and cook ten or fifteen minutes in a porcelain lined or granite vessel; add then one full pint of light brown sugar and cook another ten minutes. Pour into tumblers to harden, straining or not as preferred.

Here is a recipe for that good old Pennsylvania dish, scrapple: Simmer a pig's head, putting it on in cold water, until the flesh drops away from the bones; strain and stand away to cool. When cold remove the cake of grease that has formed on top, and put the stock on the stove, seasoning to taste with pepper, salt and sage. Now thicken with fresh corn meal, as for mush, and cook slowly for two or three hours; pour into pans to harden; slice and fry as mush for breakfast or luncheon. Any meat stock may be made the basis for scrapple, that of beef making the mush particularly nutritious.

Spanish fricco is always reliable and pleasing. Half boil enough potatoes to make, when sliced, one and one-half pints. Line the bottom of a mold with these potatoes, sliced, cover very thinly with minced or grated onion, then with rolled cracker; add small squares of perfectly lean beef cut from a good steak not more than half an inch thick, and on each square place a lump of butter, first seasoning the squares on both sides with salt and pepper; repeat these layers in the order given until potatoes and two pounds of steak have been used, finishing with a potato layer, then add one pint of sweet cream, which should come to the top without covering the last layer; cover the lid on the mold stand in a st and steam two and one-half hour

Roulades of beef are always good. If you try this recipe you will be sure to preserve it for future reference. Buy a thin slice from prime round beef and cut into pieces about two by four inches. Season with pepper and salt, cover with minced onion and raw bacon, roll, tie with a string, roll in seasoned flour and brown on all sides in butter; add a little stock or water to them and smother for two or three hours in the oven or on top of the stove; add sweet or sour cream for gravy at the last. I mean by smothering, cooking very slowly in a vessel tightly covered.

Try cooking stuffed eggs in the following manner: Boil six eggs twenty minutes, cool, shell, and cut in two lengthwise; remove the yolks, mash them fine, add to them one-half their bulk of finely minced ham, one level teaspoonful of salt, one-half saltspoonful of pepper, a little mace and cayenne, one level saltspoonful of mustard and one level teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Mix thoroughly, moisten with cream, and heap into the cooked whites. Brush over with melted butter, arrange in a shell baking dish and bake until brown. In serving, arrange on a platter and pour around them either a good meat gravy or a nice white sauce.

CORN CREAMS WITH TOMATO SAUCE.

Grate the corn from the ears and to each cupful add the unbeaten whites of three eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of white pepper, and half a cupful of thick cream beaten slightly. Mix thoroughly and put into a buttered pan which has been dusted thickly with chopped parsley. Place this in a pan of hot water and cook in the oven twenty-five minutes. Have ready a large round platter, arrange a nest of parsley in the centre, put in it the tomato sauce and lay the corn about the edge of the dish with a few sprigs of parsley. Canned corn answers nicely for this dish.

BREAD SAUCE FOR FOWL.

Peel and quarter one onion and simmer it in one pint of milk till perfectly tender. Break three-fourths pound of stale bread crumbs into small pieces, carefully picking out any hard pieces, put in a sauce pan, strain the milk over it, cover and let remain for an hour to soak. Beat it up with a fork, add a seasoning of pounded mace, cayenne and salt and one ounce of butter. Give it one boil and serve. This sauce can be enriched by adding cream just before sending it to table.

VELVET SPONGE CAKE.

Beat the yolks of six eggs until light colored and thick and gradually add two cups of sugar, beating constantly. Then stir in gradually one cupful of boiling water and two and a half cupfuls of flour sifted with two level tablespoonfuls of baking powder. Lastly add the whites of three eggs, beaten stiff, and a teaspoonful of lemon extract, and bake in two loaves.

ENTIRE WHEAT BREAD.

Over one tablespoonful of shortening, two tablespoonfuls of molasses and one and a half teaspoonfuls of salt pour one cupful of boiling water and one of scalded milk. When lukewarm, add one cake of compressed yeast dissolved in one-fourth cupful of warm water; one cupful of white flour and enough entire wheat flour to knead. When elastic, cover and let rise until the dough is double its bulk, cut down and shape into loaves, and when light again, bake for about fifty minutes.

TURKISH PILAF.

Place in a stewpan over the fire one cupful and a half of stock and one cupful of stewed and strained tomatoes. When boiling add one cupful of well-washed rice and half a teaspoonful of salt and stir lightly with a fork until the liquid is absorbed. Add half a cupful of butter and cook over hot water until tender. Stir lightly with a fork and turn into a well-buttered high ring mould. Press the mixture down thoroughly and set in a hot oven for four or five minutes, turn on to a serving dish and fill the open centre with parsley. About the pilaf pour this mixture. Have ready three cupfuls of thin slices of cold meat free from skin, fat and bone and seasoned with one teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. In one-fourth cupful of butter, saute an onion and a clove of garlic, and a scant half-teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of curry powder, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one cupful of stock and a blade of mace. Simmer ten minutes and add half a cupful of hot almond milk, one tablespoonful of currant jelly and half a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Strain over the slices of meat and reheat over hot water.

MELTED BUTTER SAUCE.

Take a quarter of a pound of butter and divide it into six portions. Take one of them and place it in an enameled pan to melt over the fire and add to it a small quantity of flour, a little pepper and a tiny pinch of nutmeg. Have ready half a tumblerful of cold water or milk and pour it into the saucepan. Stir over the fire until the whole becomes like cream, then gradually dissolve in it the remainder of the butter, taking care to stir it continually and not apply too great heat. If the melted butter shows a tendency to curdle add a spoonful of cold water and stir quickly. By adding cream and a dessertspoonful of chopped parsley to this mixture it becomes maitre d'hotel sauce. Adding two egg yolks converts it into sauce blanche. Chopped shrimps, lobster, tarragon, anchovy, capers, onions or fennel may be stirred in and the sauce takes the name of the ingredient.

MUSHROOM CATSUP.

Put a layer of large and freshly gathered mushrooms at the bottom of a deep earthen dish and sprinkle them with salt. Then add more mushrooms and salt until the desired quantity is used, and let them stand for two or three hours to allow the salt to penetrate the mushrooms and make them brittle. Then pound them in a mortar and let them remain two days, washing them well once or twice a day. Then pour them into a stone jar and to each quart add an ounce and a half of whole black pepper and half an ounce of allspice. Close the jar tightly and set it in a saucepan of boiling water and cook for two hours or more. Remove the jar and pour the juice clear from the settlings through a hair sieve into a clean saucepan and boil very gently over a slow fire for half an hour.

GREEN APPLE DESSERT.

Select half a dozen large apples, core and quarter them and place them in a saucepan with just water enough to cover. Cook slowly until tender, then press them, while hot, through a sieve, and sweeten the pulp to taste. Beat the yolks of three eggs and stir them into the hot apples, which should be returned to the range for a short time. Cool the mixture, place it in lemonade glasses and serve very cold with whipped cream and a candied cherry on the top of each. Another method is to press the mixture into custard cups, pile the beaten whites of the eggs on top, and set the cups in the oven a moment to brown. These can be eaten hot or cold and with or without plain cream.

BOILED TONGUE WITH SPINACH PUREE.

Wash a pickled beef tongue and put it over the fire with cold water to cover, two slices of bacon, a sprig of parsley, an onion and a dozen peppercorns. Heat to the boiling point, then simmer for four hours or until the tongue is very tender. Remove the skin and roots, reduce the broth by boiling and with it brush over the tongue several times, keeping it hot in the oven during the operation. Serve on a bed of spinach puree made by passing cooked spinach through a sieve or chopping it very fine. It should be seasoned with salt, paprika, butter, lemon juice and a little of the stock in which the tongue was cooked. Garnish with the white of an egg, cooked and cut in slices lengthwise and the yolk entire.

DEVONSHIRE CREAM.

Let a pan of milk stand in a cool place twenty-four hours, then move it to the back of the range and heat the milk very slowly to the boiling point, but not beyond. Place the pan in a cool spot for six hours or longer and at serving time skim off the cream and put a spoonful on the top of junket or custard or whatever it is to be eaten with. There should be no flavoring, as the cream has a peculiar delicate flavor of its own.

YACHTS AND MEN

Of all the silly suggestions connected with the yacht races, the silliest was that of the Boston Journal in trying to arrange for a race between Columbia and Shamrock with the crews changed, letting Captain Barr and his men sail Shamrock, and Captain Sycamore and his men sail Columbia. Sir Thomas Lipton was asked if he was willing, and of course said he was. Sir Thomas could hardly decline to say he was willing, but he knew that such a suggestion was absurd. Nobody in America fails to believe that Captain Barr is the best skipper of a racing yacht that lives today, and nobody fails to believe that Columbia is the best yacht in the world. The two go together. It was a contest between American and British yachts and sailors. If Captain Barr won with the Shamrock, hard feelings would inevitably follow. If Captain Sycamore won with the Columbia, there would be the same tendency. Until yachts are made which can go out and sail themselves, men will be as important a part of a race as boats, and no good would accomplished and harm would be done by trying to mix things about as the Boston paper suggested in the flush of victory.

GENERAL ALGER'S BOOK

While we are discussing the question of suppressing the tendencies of the yellow press, let us pay a little attention to the writing of "war histories" by men who are not historians. They are on about the same plane.

General Alger has for many months been busily occupied with nimble pen in preparing his "history" of the Spanish-American war. Its publication has been considerably delayed, but at last its publishers announce that the book will be ready this week, and sent out to the press the advance sheets of the production.

Once on a time, many, many years ago, a history was popularly believed to be an impartial record of the events with which it dealt, published for the purpose of instruction, that men might know what manner of men had preceded them, and what manner of deeds had made the world as they found it. But now, nothing could less fitly describe history, if General Alger's book is "it."

"A devotional defense of General Russell A. Alger, with a hearty assault on all of General Russell A. Alger's enemies, by General Russell A. Alger," would be the proper sub-title for this remarkable book.

History? Perish the thought. If it is necessary that at the close of a successful war each commander be required to write a book in defense of himself, under penalty of a court of inquiry to learn what reason he had for declining to do so, let us call it that, and accept the situation as it is. But let us include these things as mere incidents in our future real histories, written by historians, for the instruction of the people.

THEATERS

An entirely refreshing view of the theater question comes from down in Pittsfield, and Pittsfield not having any theater should know all about it. When North Adams built a handsome and modern theater last year Pittsfielders shut their teeth tightly and said nothing. When another new and beautiful theater was built in North Adams they attempted to utter feeble congratulations. But when it was announced that a special theater train would be run from the county seat to the metropolis this evening, Pittsfield courage gave way completely, and Pittsfield wept. To see its own theater goers forced to take a train for North Adams, where they could go to either of two big attractions, neither of which visits Pittsfield, was rather more than the quiet town could appreciate.

And so the Eagle of that city Saturday night published an editorial, not urging somebody in Pittsfield to get up and hustle and build a theater, but crying down the theater habit as a rank extravagance and arrant nonsense. This remarkable stand should interest the people of Pittsfield mightily. It is not uninteresting in North Adams, when the circumstances narrated are considered. "A theater isn't always the best thing.,' 'says the Eagle "to help a city or town along the road of progress. There is a question of economy in connection with the support of the theaters in any city or town, and also as to the motive which prompts the people to attend them. A surfeit of playhouses and opportunities to spend money, is not desirable when the outlay is not for the purpose of improving the public mind."

And the Eagle adds: "If North Adams supports two theaters in first class shape, her people are spending too much money for frivolity and down this way we have a more exalted idea of the temper of the people in North Adams by believing that they are too sensible to spend all their spare time and money going to shows."

Apparently the Eagle would have its readers busy themselves in "improving their rare opportunities to see a real theater. Mayhap the Eagle thinks that in reading the Eagle they are doing so!

Then this interesting editorial closes with this statement: "What cities like Pittsfield and North Adams want, is not more theaters, but institutions after the plan of Cooper institute in New York, where for a nominal sum the people are able not only to secure amusement, but to improve themselves intellectually at the same time."

Who would have the courage to provide the people in Pittsfield a theater after such an utterance. By all means let Pittsfield have a Cooper institute, and when it is built, run special trains every night from North Adams, that we may have opportunity to "improve our minds" in such innocuous ways, rather than by attending such degrading, non-sensical, undesirable and altogether frivolous productions as those of "The old homestead" and "York state folks."

According to the city almoner's opinion, we have "rummage-saled" charity out of existence. But does charity always deal in second-hand goods?

Deciding which of the rival theatrical attractions to go to this week reminds one of the ancient refrain, "Which shall it be, which shall it be."

Australia authorities are gravely considering the expediency of attaching smoking rooms to the schools. And yet they call Australia the land of promise.

It is estimated that it cost $350,000 to defend the cup this year against Sham rock II, while approximately a similar sum must have been paid out by the challenger.

Two years ago when Professor Burton of Boston brought a party of students here for a Sunday excursion to one of our many points of interest, the local pulpit made an issue on it. But Professor Barton continues to go about using the Sabbath for man instead of man for the Sabbath.

Here's an enterprising doctor all right. He had a wealthy patient, whom he managed to keep alive rather longer than was expected. Twenty-one days the exact time was, and during these 21 days the patients estate was increased in extent by an even million of dollars. The doctor now wants $100 a day for his services, and the ungraceful heirs contest his claim.

The steel trust reports earnings during the last six months, which were the first six months of its existence, as $54,954,871, or about $300,000 a day. This doesn't look quite so large when it is said that the actual financial requirements of the trust, which include dividends at the rate of seven per cent on the preferred and four per cent on the common stock, together with the interest on the bonds, are $71,021,907 for a full year. So far this year it can be seen the company has earned within $16,000,000 of this required amount, which is likely to leave a pretty good balance over at the end of the year.

The Sweet Cider Mill

In fancy I can see it still—
The old, well-loved sweet cider mill!

Where apples' juices were crushed out
And gurgled down the wooden spout!

In fancy I can see the straws
Thro' which a youth the sweet juice draws!

I see the plodding horse who jogs
Around and 'round the fruit-stained cogs'

And the man who yells "Get up, gee whoa"
To the weary horse who is loath to go!

Ah, sweet is the taste to youthful lips
Of the cider that from the spigot drips!

In after years we are sure to recall
The cider mill in the early fall!

—Arthur E. Locke in Boston Globe.

15TH ANNIVERSARY

Of the North Adams Y. M. C. A. Observed With Big Public Meeting in Richmond Theater

HOPE OF GREAT THINGS FROM GYM

Addresses by President Walley, Supt. Hall and Dr. Shepardson. Last Sunday of Shepardson Meetings at Baptist Church

The Young Men's Christian association of this city observed its 15th anniversary with a public meeting in the Richmond theater yesterday afternoon and the event was one of much interest to the friends of the organization who gathered there. The attendance was not very large, the orchestra seats not being all taken and the balcony only partly filled. The feeling of the people was in harmony, however, with the spirit which prompted the meeting and the setting forth of the aims and work of the association was refreshing. The chief address was by Rev. Dr. Daniel Shepardson, who has become familiar to the people of the city through the evangelistic services conducted by him, and remarks were made by President H. H. Walley of the association, I. F. Hall and Secretary W. R. Hale. The trustees of the association were seated on the stage with Rev. J. C. Tebbetts, the other ministers being unable to attend on account of out-of-town engagements and other reasons. Some of the familiar hymns were sang at different parts of the service, John Taylor leading the singing, and Clarence Reynolds rendered two very beautiful solos, "The way of peace" and "Come unto Me."

President Walley in a brief opening address expressed the gratitude of the association to the citizens who have made possible the building of a gymnasium and believed that there would be a grand work done in the coming year by this auxiliary to their means. W. R. Hale offered prayer and Rev. J. C. Tebbetts read a passage of scripture.

I. F. Hall was then introduced and spoke in part as follows: The Christian religion is unlike other religions in that it changes from year to year and century to century adapting itself to the conditions of the times. Its motto is "Onward and upward." The religion of the 19th century is better than that of bygone centuries, and the religion of the 20th is to be better than we have seen. In early years the doctrine of personal sin and personal conversion was preached; later, attention was turned to the conversion by families, and today the emphasis is laid on salvation of society. The Y. M. C. A. exists to bring men together in society and make them better citizens. Mr. Hall then touched on the importance of handling aright the young men who are passing through the storm and stress period of life and said that their physical needs should be attended to as well as spiritual and asked the aid of those willing to support the work. He said that the secret of North Adams' growth and success is that the members of her churches are Christian citizens.

Envelopes for pledges for the year 1902 were then distributed through the audience. Mr. Hall added a few words to say that in the opinion of himself and the trustees the gymnasium would not have become an accomplished fact without the energetic and efficient work of Secretary Hale.

Rev. Dr. Shepardson was introduced and in the beginning of his address said that the problem of existence is to find what is worth while. Different people have various aims, some high, others low and valueless. Some hold that to be strong in body is the best good, but the Y. M. C. A. says that the one mistakes their thought who puts the physical supreme. The church and the Y. M. C. A. also unite in saying that there is something better in life than merely making merry. Neither money nor power is truly satisfying. Nor does knowledge bring greater happiness. Animals act on instincts, but men must have purposes, and the Y. M. C. A. helps men to aright answer to the great problem of what is worth while. Christ's answer is "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness." Christian manhood and womanhood linked to God through faith in God are the supreme things which the Y. M. C. A. stands for. The call today is for men and women in whatever occupations who make it their first business to be Christian men and women. Only as the young man takes to heart the principles of the manliest man can he make this manhood what Christ wanted.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. C. Tebbetts.

Dr. Shepardson's Last Sunday

Yesterday was the last Sunday of the evangelist Dr. Shepardson's visit in this city and many took advantage of the opportunity to hear him, the larger congregation being in the evening when the auditorium of the Baptist church was filled. The services, which have been kept unsectarian, will be continued this week for four days, closing Thursday evening and being held at the usual hour afternoon and evening. The meetings will be of unusual interest, and in the short time remaining more work will be done which will go with the influences of the recent meetings to make a lasting impression for good on the future religious life of the city. Dr. Shepardson goes to Chicago from here.

Dr. Shepardson preached in the morning on some of the lessons to be drawn from the book of Habakkuk. He outlined the history of the period in which Habakkuk lived, showing the deplorable condition of affairs which made the prophet cry out in despair to the Lord. A wicked king was on the throne, Baal worship was rampant and worse than all, as it seemed to the prophet, the Babylonians were coming to subdue Palestine after having conquered Nineveh and the army from Egypt. In his answer to the prophet God showed how the foreigners should really accomplish His own ends by their invasion and taught the lesson that the proud have in themselves the seeds of ruin and that as character determines destiny, righteousness by its integrity survives. It takes eternity to show the lesson but the good can afford to wait. Out of seeming defeat comes the ultimate victory. Bunker Hill monument stands for a lost battle and Washington monument for a man who won by retreating. We need a wider outlook and should not be discouraged by apparent lack of progress. Confidence in God makes a certainty of the highest success.

A meeting for small children was held by Mrs. Shepardson yesterday afternoon in place of the afternoon Bible study conducted by Dr. Shepardson. Mrs. Shepardson's talk was of scriptural truth shown objectively, the subject yesterday being "Light." There was a good attendance of the children. A similar meeting is held this afternoon after school and there will be another one tomorrow.

Dr. Shepardson's sermon in the evening was on a text drawn from the parable of the great supper told of in the gospel of St. Luke, "And they all with one consent began to make excuse." No one, said Dr. Shepardson, ever came to earth on a more merciful mission and no one was more mercilessly treated than Christ. The parable is true to life and was given to illustrate the unnatural attitude to spiritual things which is similar to the unnautral attitude of the invited guests of the parable in refusing to come to the feast, made ready for them. When the preacher asks men to make the right choice they beg off. Men admit that the Christian religion is best but have not the manhood to pay the price and give up a few things. Some men say that they would join a perfect church if there was one! but there is none and if there was, a pure church could not accept an imperfect being of human frailty; such a man would feel abashed in the presence of chaste purity.

RESOLUTIONS

There is a choice in the time when one might wish to die. Even the grave sheds honor and glory when with eloquence and merited praise with music and stately procession we lay within its keeping the mighty ones we love and esteem.

When sympathetic nations linger around the open gate with tearful eyes and tender hearts to bid their favored ones farewell, then to die is to be borne away upon a flood of human sympathy when we feel

"There is no death: 'tis but a change of life
And ever near us though unseen
The dear immortal spirit tread.
There is no death: the stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore."

But though this star has set in splendor still we perceive our great loss, therefore,

Whereas, It has pleased the Great Master of the universe to remove from our midst our honored and beloved president and brother William McKinley, therefore be it

Resolved, That Lafayette lodge recognizes the great loss this nation, his widow and our beloved institution has met, and that we as free and accepted masons consider it an honor to belong to this order of which he was an influential and beloved member, that we deeply sympathize with Mrs. McKinley in her great loss, that we denounce the assassin who caused his death and that we desire that laws may be passed to prevent assaults against our future rulers.

Resolved, That we shall ever remember William McKinley as one of our most illustrious and respected presidents, a good masonic brother and a friend to every one.

Resolved, That resolutions be spread upon our records and published in our daily papers.

New Candidate For Bishop

The news comes from Pittsfield, through the Union, that the choice of the Berkshire rectors for bishop of the new diocese of Western Massachusetts is Rev. Dr. David H. Greer of New York, rector of St. Bartholomew's church.

At the convention at San Francisco the House of Bishops ratified Saturday the proposed division of the diocese of Massachusetts and the plans already made for it. Bishop Lawrence was one of the speakers at the convention yesterday.

Pleasant Chestnutting Party

Chestnutting parties are now in order and there were plenty of them on the hills yesterday. But not all the chestnuts are gathered on Sunday, at least not all of the pleasant attempts to secure them are made on that day. One party of young people went out Saturday afternoon and not only succeeded in saving a part of the crop from the Sunday harvesters, but had an enjoyable feast besides. They took along refreshments and coffee and at the proper time and place a fire was built, over which the coffee was brewed in true gypsy fashion, and the spread was enjoyed keenly. The party was made up of young men and women and it was a very happy outing.

DISCORDANT MARTIAL MUSIC FROM MUSICIANS' UNIONS

Trouble Between the Unions of This City and Alleged Union in Adams To Go To Convention

There is "music in the air" just at present, caused by the musicians of this city and Adams. The first strains of the martial melody were heard just before the big field day in Pittsfield Labor day, when the Central Labor union of Adams engaged the Germania band to furnish music and act as their escort in the parade at Pittsfield. The local musicians' union protested on the grounds that Germania band was non-union and the protest was valid. However the band men of Adams at the eleventh hour expressed a desire to adjust matters and with the understanding that the Adams musicians would join later, a compromise was made whereby the band was allowed to parade and secure its fee.

Labor day has gone and still all of the Adams musicians with the exception of three men, who have belonged to the local union for several months past, are still non-union men. Instead of fulfilling their promise to join the local union, the Adams men wrote to headquarters and applied for a charter of their own. This they reported they had obtained through the Central Labor union of Adams, and it was further claimed a C. L. U. officer of Adams had organized the Adams musicians and accepted their officers.

The whole fight is the result of a charter which the American Federation of Music granted the musicians' union of this city. It provides that the local union has jurisdiction within a radius of 15 miles and so Adams musicians must either join the local union or receive a permit from the local union for a charter.

The Adams men claim that the initiation fee of $5, which is necessary to join here, is exhorbitant and that anyway Adams ought to have a musicians' union of its own. Backed by the C. L. U. of Adams the musicans of that town have held out and the final outcome is in doubt.

At Sunday evening's meeting in this city the local union discussed the Adams situation in all its bearings. The local union has received notice from the American Federation of music and from the Federation of Labor that this union is supreme in the situation and only through this union may the Adams men be organized.

It has been asked why the local union objects to a separate charter for Adams and the reply is that Adams musicians have and intend to cut the regular union prices and so the local union acts to protect itself and especially the Adams men who belong here.

The local union has instructed the C. L. U. delegates from this city who are attending the labor convention in Holyoke this week to report the matter and especially will the Adams C. L. U. be called to account for its alleged assistance and its illegal action in the matter.

The local union also voted last night to reduce its initiation fee for those who wish to join before December, from $5 to $2.50. This holds good for Adams and North Adams, musicians until the first Sunday in December, when the charter, which is now open, will be closed.

DRURY WON AT ADAMS

Put Up Good Football in the First Game of the Season Saturday

WILLIAMS DID WELL AT NEW YORK

Lost to Columbia, But Played a Fast Game. Williamstown High Won at Bennington. New Pittsfield Eleven Beaten

The football results of Saturday were quite pleasing to the enthusiasts of this section. Drury played its first game of the season and did quite well, defeating Adams high 22 to 0. Williams met Columbia in New York and would have won but for two bad fumbles, which are excusable in the second game but will not be hereafter, Amherst failed to make much of a show against Worcester Tech, a weak team, and naturally it is asked if too much importance has not been attached to the Yale game. Dartmouth continues to put up a very fast game, but Wesleyan won against a weak team and the Tufts game is the only one to judge her by. But her eleven is made up of fast men and will soon be showing up very well. The scores of Saturday was as follows:

Drury 22, Adams high 0.
Columbia 5, Williams 0
Harvard 16, Bates 6.
Yale 29, Tufts 5.
U. of P. 23, Penn state 6.
Princeton 47, Haverford 0.
Amherst 6, Worcester Tech 0.
Williamstown high 11, Catamounts 0.
Amherst Aggies 6, Pittsfield 0.
Wesleyan 29, Springfield T. S. 0.
Syracuse 20, Brown 0.
Dartmouth 23, Trinity 0.
Cornell 6, Bucknell 0.
West Point 20, Franklin and M 0.
Annapolis 0, Georgetown 0.
Carlisle 10, Dickinson 0.
Worcester academy 12, Exeter 11.

Drury Wins Its First

Drury played its first game of the year on Forest park in Adams Saturday afternoon with the Adams high school eleven as opponents, and the North Adams boys showed up very well, winning the game by a score of 22 to 0. The teams were evenly matched in weight.

Drury won the toss, and at 3.35 Adams kicked off to Blanshan, who returned the ball about 10 yards. Drury lost the ball twice on downs. Adams was weak on center plays but good on skirting the ends. Drury, on the other hand, could not seem to get around the end but did excellent line bucking. Towards the end of the half, Drury had the ball on Adams' seven yard line with the distance to gain. The distance did not matter, however, for Rice was given the ball and in a straight line buck went through and over for the first touchdown. Blanshan failed to kick a goal and the score was 5 to 0 in favor of Drury. Time was soon called.

Drury started the second half with a rush. From the time it received the ball on the kickoff it rushed it steadily down the field and over the line. Rice made the touchdown and Blanshan kicked a goal.

Again there was steady play from the kick off and soon Lober made the third touchdown. Blanshan failed in try for a goal.

Drury picked up an end play now and Blanshan went around the end for a run of half the length of the field to the fourth touchdown. He kicked a goal this time and the score was 22 to 0. The game was called with the ball in Drury's possession on its 30-yard line. The lineup and score:

DRURY.	ADAMS.
Reynolds, re,	le, Shaw
Follett, rt,	lt, Copeland
Frink, Temple, rg,	lg, Brown
Bartlett, c,	c, Zahner
Holmes, lg,	rg, Bard
Lasher, lt,	rt, Robinson
Bonnar, Mulcare, le,	re, Barrett
Blanshan, qb,	qb, Tetlow
Rice, rhb,	lhb, McNamara
Lober, lhb,	rhb, Brandon
Tebbetts, fb,	fb, Hambith

Score, Drury 22, Adams High 0; referees, Mr. Carpenter of Adams; Mr. Memmott of Drury; umpire, Mr. Memmott and Mr Carpenter; touchdowns, Rice 2, Lober, Blanshan; goals from touchdown, Blanshan 2; time of halves 20 and 15 minutes.

Williams Played Well

Columbia defeated Williams by a score of 50 to 0 in a clean game of foot ball at New York Saturday afternoon. Dame Fortune was with the New York men hard, for the visitors came within an ace of scoring on two occasions in the second half.

The victory of Columbia was entirely due to good work in the first few minutes of play. After that Williams more than held her own. In the second half the Williams backs tore through the light blue and white line as though it were paper and skirted the ends for big gains.

Weeks made the touchdown for Columbia, and it was the result of a fine twenty-yard run around the left end. He made several other brilliant plays and gained considerable ground by his famous trick of hurdling the line, but he marred his work by failing to play well on the defence, and lost his head completely once when running with the pigskin after a catch of a punt.

For the Williams side Jaeckel, Watson and Lawrence, the halfbacks, all did well, and Peabody, the fullback, hit the line hard, but was weak on punting. Watson plunged in for many gains, but he practically lost the game for Williams by a bad fumble when the sphere was within a few yards of the Columbia goal, and Lawrence, who took his place, did the same thing later.

Bruce kicked off for Columbia, and Peabody was downed on Williams' ten-yard line. Williams could not advance the leather, so Peabody kicked to Weeks, who was thrown hard in the Center of the field. Then Weeks, Morley and Dougherty were sent into the Williams line in rapid succession for big gains until the ball rested on Williams five-yard line.

Dougherty failed to gain, and Morley got two through center. Dougherty was sent in again, but it only netted a yard, and Williams was given the sphere. Watson and Jaeckel then got twenty yards in successive plunges before the ball went to Columbia on downs. On the next line-up Weeks was handed the sphere and made the end run through a broken field, which won the game.

In the second half, after five minutes' play, Williams had the ball on Columbia's twelve yard line. Watson plunged in and made ten yards, but he dropped the ball and Smyth of Columbia fel on it. Columbia could gain but little, and lost the ball for holding, and it was given to Williams on Columbia's fifteen-yard line.

Jaeckel and Lawrence got seven yards on plunges, and then the Columbia goal line was saved a second time by a fumble on the part of Lawrence. Morley promptly kicked the sphere well out of danger. The line-up and summary:

Columbia	Williams.
Wolff, l e,	re, Wilbur
Smythe, l t,	r t, Hatch

Touchdown, Weeks. Referees, Morris, Ely, Yale. Umpire, J. C. McCracken, Pennsylvania. Time, 15-minute halves.

New Pittsfield Eleven Beaten

The new Pittsfield football team made its initial bow before a crowd of about 3000 people Saturday afternoon on the common in that city, and was defeated, after an exciting contest by the strong Amherst "Aggie" eleven, the score being 6 to 0. The day was an ideal one and the interest was intense throughout the game. Two 15-minute periods were played and the visitors got their single touchdown in 10 minutes' play in the first half, after some snappy work in which Bodfish and O'Hearn were easily the stars. The Pittsfield team was weak in offensive play.

Williamstown High Won

The Williamstown high school defeated the Catamounts of Bennington, Vt., Saturday in that town by a score of 11 to 0. The game was a pretty exhibition of football and was won by the Williamstown boys in the first when they put up a fast game. The Catamounts line was heavier than the high school boys, and the high schoool backs found it impossible to gain through it; but a tackle play, formed by bringing one of the tackles behind the line and sending him through the opposite tackle worked well, and before the Bennington boys were able to break it up, the Williamstown boys scored two touchdowns, from one of which a goal was kicked.

In the second half the high school boys were unable to score. The home team rushed the ball up the field once to the one yard line of the visitors, but there the Williamstown boys held for downs. When time was called the ball was in the center of the field in the possession of Williamstown. During the game John McMahon collided with one of the Bennington players, and both were injured. McMahon received a bad cut on the nose, which nearly broke it, and the Bennington player was cut on the head.

The line-up of the Williamstown team was as follows:

Left end, Curtis; left tackle, Towne; left guard, Mears; center, Locke; right guard, Dadmun; right tackle, McMahon, W. Stocking; right end, Welch; quarterback, Belding; left halfback, S. Stocking; right halfback, W. Stocking, Wells; fullback, Phelps. W. Stocking made a sensational run in the first half, breaking through tackle and carrying the ball 70 yards for a touchdown.

Letter to Peter Caldwell

NORTH ADAMS MASS.

Dear Sir: Consider one point, if you please, in painting your work—a point on which the practice of painters is apt to be wrong—the priming

The usual practice is to use cheap ochre for priming. Don't do it. Use the same paint you are going to use for the other two coats.

The reason for cheap ochre is: it is cheap—a poor reason. The saving is very small—a few cents on the side of a house—and the damage considerable. Cheap ochre is poor stuff; not fit for foundation paint; not fit for the bond between paint and wood. And priming is both foundation and bond.

Devoe is your paint; the same for all coats; lead and zinc; best paint in the world. We have no monopoly of it. Others can make it; they choose to make inferior paint. Lead and oil lasts half as long as Devoe.

This is an absurd condition in the paint business; but it exists. Devoe is your paint.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.

P. S.—Alderman & Carlisle sell our paint in your section.

One of the "picture" girls with Frank L. Perley's Comedians in "The Chaperons" who is attracting especial newspaper attention this season is Miss Frances Wheeler, one of the five little chaperons in the role of Girlie. Miss Wheeler is comparatively new to the stage having had only one season's experience, divided between the Nielsen opera company and the late Roland Reed's company where she was understudy for Miss Isadore Rush. Miss Wheeler comes from the Chicago society family of Wheelers who amassed their fortunes in lumber. She recently moved to New York with her mother after graduating from the Wheatcroft dramatic schools, lives in a handsome 84th street residence, has her own saddle horses, victoria and pair, and insists on having her dresses made in Paris. Miss Wheeler caught the experienced eye of Frank L. Perley with her refined work as a singing engenue and was signed for "The Chaperons" before the close of last season. "The Chaperons" will be presented at the Empire on Wednesday next, October 9.

DANCING RECEPTION.

Invitations are out today for Meade's opening reception in Odd Fellows' hall, Friday evening, October 11. The Ideal orchestra will furnish music.

Mr. Meade is a member of the Normal school association masters of dancing which held their convention at Buffalo in June and has adopted many new dances for the coming season including the Berkshire three step of his own composition.

THE FAIR CLOSES

Baby Show Held and Articles Drawn at Relief Corps Fair

The Woman's relief corps fair closed Saturday evening with a fairly good crowd. The fair this year has not been as successful as former efforts in this line, the attendance, with the exception of two evenings, being very small. Those who were present, however, are satisfied that the fair itself was fully up to the standard and deserved better support.

Dancing was the principal feature Saturday evening. The baby show in afternoon was an interesting innovation, and a number of pretty babies were in evidence. The prizes, however, were not for the prettiest babies but were awarded to the youngest one present, the youngest one who talked, and the youngest one who walked.

The following were the prize winners: The youngest child present was Ellen Elvira Erickson, six weeks old. To her was given a nice white knit shawl. The youngest who talked was Frank Warren, son of Mary and Harry Warren of Brooklyn street: prize, a puff box. The third prize was awarded to Ruth Davidson, a very cunning little miss of 12 months who walked anywhere and everywhere into everyone's heart. The judges were Mrs. Rouse of Philadelphia and Mrs. Grace Ion of Brooklyn, N. Y.,

The following articles were disposed of to the lucky ones during the evening: Clock, Mrs. Lanfair; carriage robe, Will McKay; pipe, Frank Wyatt; placque, Mrs. Lillie Kent; sofa pillow, Mrs. Lillie Kent. The holder of the coupon for door prize was not present. The lucky number is 604 and the prize may be secured from Mrs. I. S. Browne.

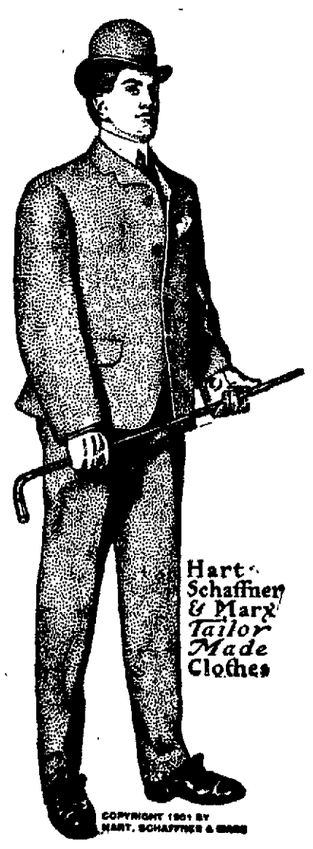

The bicycle contest could not be closed owing to inability to collect all books. This will be decided tonight.

As was stated last week, the piano contest does not close until some time next week.

The ladies desire to thank all the merchants who so kindly contributed various articles and every individual who in any way gave articles, money or service to aid them in their worthy efforts.

The amount realized from the fair cannot be very large owing to the small attendance.

WILLIAMSTOWN

SOPHOMORES WON.

Whole Event Was a Success—Freshmen Entertain Sp ctators.

There certainly was never an event in the world just like the annual baseball game between the Williams freshmen and sophomores Saturday, including the accessories before and during the game, and it is doubtful if there will ever be another. It surely can never be well imitated and it is a question whether the originators of Saturday's program could produce another just exactly like it. Success attended every part of the proceedings, though the freshmen would have considered it more universal had it favored their arms instead of those of the sophomores. However, what the nine failed to accomplish in baseball their classmates made up on the sidelines, where the "stunts" were done for the amusement of the spectators.

Te give a correct impression of the parade by description is quite impossible. Student pranks must be witnessed to be enjoyed. The first in line was a troop of rough riders, which body composed a dozen or more freshmen straddling brooms. Then came the baseball team and then the senior class committee, which had charge of the affair. The members of the committee were William Everdell of New York city, Joseph B. Ely of Westfield, Everton Lawrence of North Adams, Joseph W. Jeffery of Columbus, O., James Heffernan of Housatonic, Rowland Haynes of Worcester, Royal T. Riggs of Brooklyn, Harold P. Erskine of Racine, Wis., and Max B. Berking of Williamstown. They rode in a wagon drawn by freshmen, and on either side were stalwart guards, dressed as ballet dancers and carrying ten-cent toy guns. Following was a brigade of ballet dancers and the class, each member wearing a false face of boyish design.

Along the line of march the rough riders made excursions into the "woods" looking for the enemy, and scouts were sent out also. The manner in which the latter performed their part created no end of laughter, for they stole about and crouched behind stumps and trees in true Indian scouting style. In front of the Greylock hotel, where the parade halted for a few minutes, several performances were gone through for the amusement of the guests on the hotel veranda.

While the ball game was being played on Weston field, the committee carried out a well defined program in front of the bleachers, which were filled with people. First a freshman and sophomore sat upon the grass and took tea together from a toy tea set, and then four freshmen, drawing toy horses on wheels, raced the length of the bleachers and return, the rule of the race being that the horses must be kept right side up, a very difficult feat upon the cinder track. Then the ballet dancers danced while one of their number played a toy hand organ, and a quartet sang. One freshman, who led the yelling of his class of the campus, was brought before the bleachers and made to give one of the college yells, which he had quite far from correct, and then he was asked to teach it to the spectators. He was then asked to sing, and when he gave a German ong the people roared with laughter. Then he was made to teach the song to one of his classmates.

A sophomore baseball player, who was doing most of the coaching for his team, was brought to the bleachers and coached for the spectators, but he was not phased a bit. He picked out different students in the bleachers and made a decided hit. The freshmen guards who carried the guns, and who had been doing picket duty in front of the bleachers, then went about the grounds and shot people with their toy guns, and one of them caused great laughter when he made a mistake and shot one of the new professors.

The baseball game resulted in a victory for the sophomores. The game was allowed to proceed for five innings without interruption by the seniors. Burrell was in the box for the sophomores and was a puzzle to the freshmen. He saved the day for his class, and when the fifth inning came to an end and the parade of the seniors around the bases began, the score was 6 to 5 in their favor. McCarthy caught a good game for the freshmen and Brastow accepted several difficult chances at shortstop. Nesbitt, who played third base for the freshmen, hit out a two-bagger and then a home run.

The score was as follows:

Sophomores,	0	0	4	1	1	—6
Freshmen,	0	0	0	1	4	—5

Batteries, Burrell, McNair and Durfee. Plunkett, Wadsworth, McCarthy and Parsons.

The fun began after th esenior parade. Then the fielders were made to play while standing on barrels, while the hitter wa swheeled around the bases in a wheelbarrow by a companion. The fielders were tied together by long ropes, the base runner, when he proceeded a base, had to play leap frog with another member of his team, and various other things of a similar nature proved a source of muc hamusement.

SCALDED WHILE IN FAINT.

Miss Olive Bradley Badly Injured by Overturning Kettle of Boiling water.

Miss Olive Bradley is suffering from injuries which she received Saturday by overturning a kettle of boiling water. She was carrying the kettle to the kitchen stove in her home on Meacham street, when she fell in a faint and the kettle of water was over turned upon her. The water struck her in the breast and she was so badly scalded that at first it was feared that she could not recover and upon the arrival of Dr. J. B. Hull, who was called immediately, it was learned that the burns were not so serious as first thought.

HARVEST SUPPER TOMORRCW EVENING.

HANDWRITING EXPERTS.

One of Them Explains How They Do Their Work.

It would seem from the frequent appearance of handwriting experts in the courts and the charges they make for their services that there must be something occult about the science of chirography and that the ways of the hand writing expert must be queer and devious. To hear one of these men explain his science, however, it all appears exceptionally simple. One of the best known of these experts a few days ago explained his plan of work in this wise:

"When a writing of unidentified authorship is submitted to me, I aim to determine the dissimilarities it exhibits from a conventional standard. Every person writes with a certain general movement, these movements being classified under the heads of forearm movements, wrist movements and finger movements. The trained eye can see at a glance according to what general system the writing is penned.

"This anonymous writing we call the 'suspect.' The suspect is now carefully analyzed. Every letter in every word is dissected, and each departure from the standard is noted. These dissimilarities, taken in full, will be invarably found to be characteristic of the writer. In spite of himself they will appear to a greater or less extent in everything that he writes.

"Having thus analyzed the suspect, I take up the specimens of known authorship and regarded as being very likely of identical authorship with the suspect. These specimens we call the exemplars. They are analyzed and dissected, just as in the case of the suspects. It will be very easy in most cases to say that certain of the exemplars could not have been penned by the author of the suspect, and after more careful examination it will be possible to say with accuracy whether the suspect was written by the writer of one of the exemplars, and if so, which one.

"In cases of disguised handwriting the difficulty is generally not greatly increased. A person simply cannot avoid betraying himself in his penmanship, and although he may successfully disguise a few letters, in the main the natural dissimilarities from the accepted standard will be evident and unmistakable.

"In cases of disguised handwriting the expert must first determine the method of the disguise so as to know what are the real and what the unreal features of the person's regular handwriting which are here displayed. Having determined the method the rest is easy, for an adjustment can be made in every case, just as the surveyor allows in his calculations for abnormal influences upon his compass."—New York Times.

THIRD BERKSHIRE DEMOCRATIC REPRESENTATIVE CONVENTION.

The delegates to the third Berkshire Representative Democratic Convention are requested to meet at Town Hall, Adams, on Friday, October 11th, 1901, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative for said district and to transact any other business that may come before the convention.

DANIEL V. BERGEN,
Adams, Oct. 3, 1901. Chairman.

Gave Napoleon Advice.

Napoleon Bonaparte had no more devoted and disinterested friend than Gaspard Monge, the illustrious academician and founder of L'Ecole Polytechnique. On one occasion he demonstrated his regard by giving the great general some unwelcome advice.

Napoleon announced his intention of reading a paper to the French institute. Monge frankly expressed his disapproval of the plan.

"You have not time to write a good paper, and you cannot afford to write a poor one. The eyes of the world are upon you. Whatever you write will be severely criticised."

Napoleon was astounded and indignant at this plain speaking, but he never wrote the paper.

ADAMS

SATURDAY NIGHT RUNAWAY.

Teams Collide on Commercial Street. One Driver and Horse Injured. Narrow Escapes.

There was a collision of teams on Commercial street about 8 o'clock Saturday night, which resulted in a serious runaway of one of the horses, driven by Nelson Giroux, and in Mr. Giroux being quite badly injured. The wagon attached to the runaway horse had both front wheels taken off and the horse's legs were cut terribly. Mr. Giroux was thrown out and sustained body bruises and a cut on the head.

The collision occurred on Commercial street near the driveway that leads to W. S. Jenks' horse barn. At this point the road is narrow as there are piles of bricks and building material on one side, near the L. L. Brown paper company's mill and large maple trees cast heavy shadows which darken the other side. Mr. Giroux was driving in a Concord buggy and had nearly reached the turn at Center street when a team going toward Cheshire, ran into him. It is claimed that the team going south was on the wrong side of the road and this may be so since nothing was seen of the rig after the collision.

When the teams smashed into each other a wheel was taken off Mr. Giroux's buggy and he was thrown out and struck on his head and shoulder. He was unconscious when taken into F. T. Mole's drug store. A doctor was called and dressed a cut on the right side of the head, just above the ear. The horse ran down Myrtle street and crossed to Dean street, near G. H. Holden's lumber yard. Turning up Dean street the horse returned to Center street and collided with J. E. Cadigon's grocery wagon. The remaining front wheel was torn off and the horse dragging buggy and striking the crossbar with its heels at every jump, ran to the hill on Center street opposite the Universalist church. A pedestrian stopped the runaway and the horse was unhitched. The animal's both hind legs were cut so that they bled profusely.

A claim is made that the electric light on the corner of Myrtle and streets was out, and that otherwise the accident might have been avoided. Mr. Giroux will probably sue the Adams electric light company for damages.

PLAYED A TIE.

Local Football Teams Knew One Another's Signals. No Scoring Results.

The Adams and Renfrew football teams came together in a game of Rugby football at Renfrew Saturday afternoon and a tie game resulted. It was an interesting game to watch and caused much merriment for the large number of spectators. The fun was that the Renfrews knew the signals of the Adams team and vice versa This was the result of each team having had an exchange of players. It was a blocking of plays from start to finish and neither side could score, though the Adams team which is the heavier is said to have the better of the contest. The line up of the teams follows:

ADAMS.	RENFREWS.

CALL FOR CONVENTION.

Democrats will Meet Friday in Opera House to Nominate Representative Candidates.

Chairman Daniel V. Bergen has issued the call for the Third Berkshire district representative convention and it will be held in the opera house in this town at 2.30 o'clock Friday afternoon. The delegates from Cheshire, Savoy, Windsor and Florida will attend and it is very probable that there will be no contest as H. M. Fern will be re-nominated. The convention comes one day before the republican representative convention The democrats have usually been successful in electing their candidates for representative and although last year's fight was a hard one, it now looks as though Mr. Fern would have an easier time of it this year, provided he is nominated.

QUOIT HANDICAP FINISHED.

Owing to Darkness the Players in Finals Divide the Money.

The Renfrew Thistle quoit club has had the handicap started a few ago, finished. The semi-finals were played at the club grounds on Pine street Saturday afternoon. The result of these was a victory for John McCroary over John Reisch by a score or 21 to 18 and a victory for David Carduff over John Chalmers by a score of 21 to 14. Messrs. Carduff and McCroary were to play off for first prize and Reisch and Chalmers for third, but owing to darkness the money was divided. The prizes were $8, $4, $3 and $1.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM RUSSELL.

The funeral of William Russell took place Sunday afternoon from St. Thomas church at 1 o'clock. The Robert Emmet benevolent association attended in a body and six of its members, John Hope, William Whittle, Edward McDonald, Thomas McGinty, John and Thomas Welch, were pall bearers. The body was taken on the 2 o'clock train to Pittsfield and was met by the Robert Emmet and Sarsfield societies of that city who escorted it to the grave. Among the floral tributes was a handsome design from the Emmet society of this town. A high mass of requiem was celebrated for the deceased at St. Thomas church at 8 o'clock this morning.

FRANCO-AMERICAN CLUB MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Franco-American club was held Sunday afternoon and the reports of the delegates to the convention in Springfield last week were heard. J. S. Bordeleau and P. O. Gratton gave detailed reports of the convention. The club decided to hold a meeting and engage some prominent speaker to deliver an address on "Naturalization." A supper will also be served and an entertainment will be given. This meeting will be held before the coming election and the arrangements will be made by Henry Charpentier, Dr. A. Desrochers, L. Lamoureux, P. O. Gratton and Fred Besse.

SURPRISED BY FRIENDS.

There was a pleasant surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawson in Zylonite last Friday evening. A number of friends called and made pleasant the occasion which was the birthday of their son, Robert. During the evening there was music and in-door games were played. A supper was served and Mr. Lawson has a handsome gold headed umbrella as a birthday gift and souvenir.

MEN WERE TIPPED OUT.

There was a mix up on Columbia street opposite the Renfrew depot Sunday afternoon about 4.30 o'clock. Joseph Wood with a companion were driving recklessly by an electric car when the horse went to the west side of the road and the carriage running up on a bank tipped over and both men went out. The horse did not get away and no serious damage resulted.

AT THE RIFLE RANGE.

There was considerable shooting done at Company M's rifle range Saturday afternoon when a good many of the members turned out for practice. Frank Groesbeck, W. C. Flansburgh, Frank Knight and R. D. Graham of Dalton, as guests of Captain Hicks, were visitors. A practice shot was held and some good scores were made.

North Adams people endorse them.

Mr. William McCombs, blacksmith, residing on Crandall street, Adams, says—"For five years I suffered from kidney complaint and during the time tried nearly everything to get relief. I was continually growing worse and made up my mind to stop using medicine until I knew something about it. I had a very severe attack in the winter of 1897 and was complaining about it to Joseph Cardinal, who happened to visit my shop. He advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills, saying they had cured him, when doctors even failed. I made careful inquiry and deciding to try the remedy I went to a drug store and got a box. When I commenced the treatment. If I turned my body quickly I was rewarded with sharp shooting pains in the small of my back, if I stooped or picked up anything from the floor it hurt severely and I had to resort to little mechanical maneuvers with my arms to save myself from actual pain, nearly every move I made. I have got out of bed in the morning feeling as if I had slept on a pile of stones and to add to the trouble difficulty with the kidney secretions set in. After using two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills all the trouble disappeared, but to make matters certain I took a third box, and today my kidneys are as sound in their action as a boy five years old. It is some months since I stopped the treatment and I have no indication of any return."

POINTS ABOUT DIVING.

Rules For Making a Graceful Plunge Into the Water.

A good diver may occasionally lose his balance when taking a high dive, but being generally cool headed he can regain it or at any rate sufficiently so to prevent injury to himself, for if he came from a great height flat on to his stomach he would, we are told, be torn open, most probably with fatal results. While this presumably is anatomically possible, it is doubtful whether there is any actual case on record among medical and diving authorities.

Divers sometimes go deaf through not sufficiently protecting the face and head. Many find it difficult to drop the head sufficiently to get it well between the arms; the result is they get some tremendous blows on the head, and if the water is struck sideways the ear gets most of the concussion, and the result will not improbably be a rupture of the membrane of the tympanum. A little medicated wool, dipped in oil and placed in the ears, is said to be a preventive to such an accident, but it is disregarded by most experts.

In diving you must have perfect control over yourself or you will get nervous and lose your head. Confidence and the proper amount of practice will make each successive part of the dive more or less mechanical. The tension experienced by some divers is over when they spring, with others not until they enter the water. But this is chiefly a matter of temperament, for others feel no tension whatever and appreciate each part, the filling of the lungs with air, the spring, the falling through space and the entering and cleaving of the water.

One of the chief dangers of high diving is that of coming over on one's back Divers often get the backs of their legs fearfully bruised by neglecting to keep them quite straight and allowing them to bend backward from the knees.

William Henry, secretary of the English Life Saving society, says: "According to the rules of the Life Saving society, framed for the purpose of the national graceful diving competition, a dive is defined as follows: A leap is made into the air, the body is then straightened almost horizontally, the arms are turned at once toward the water and the legs thrown up for the downward drop. On entering the water the arms must be extended in advance of the head, the forefingers must be in contact and the palms of the hands held downward. The thighs and the legs from the hips to the great toes must be kept close together and the feet turned back. No dive is counted in which the competitor when entering the water turns on his back."

From the offensive fusel oil the skill of the chemist has been able to extract the odors of several flowers and fruits.

Independent Telephone Combine.

A consolidation of all the independent telephone companies of Easton, Pa., has been effected and is to be followed by the merging of all the independent systems of the state of Pennsylvania with those of New Jersey. MORE EXTENSIONS OF THE STREET RAILWAY

Lines to Sand Springs and Stamford. Big Lake Resort to Be Opened on the Stamford Line. Substitute Routes For Church Street. The work of Laying Rails in Cheshire Begun

The half of the street railway story for northern Berkshire has hardly been told yet. The extensions petitioned for are not the only ones likely to be built next year. The company is already planning to build the proposed extension to Clarksburg, and this will be extended to Stamford. The Williamstown line will be rebuilt with the same modern equipment to be provided for the new Adams line, and there are plans for an extension at Williamstown to the Sand Springs. Other Williamstown extensions are hinted at.

In this city a terminal at the depot is to be provided and some of the lines from out of town will run to that point.

In the matter of an extension down Church street a member of the company says the road officials will do just what the people want. If there is opposition to Church street another route will be offered and two substitutes are already being considered. They provide for reaching Ashland street below Chestnut, one very near that street and the other near the railroad culvert near the Cary homestead.

The proposition to extend Ashland street through to Main street is an attractive one and acceptable to the Hoosac Valley company; but the expense would be so great that the company could do nothing in the matter. The city could not afford to undertake it, desirable as the result would be, and those who would push that plan will find their only hope in the possibility of undertaking the work through the organization of a big syndicate.

The Hoosac Valley company need not even build its new line on the east side of the valley. It could double track State street and so have a modern line with heavy rails and good roadbed while the only line was being taken up and rebuilt. But this would not prove the benefit to North Adams or Adams that the proposed line would It would not result in a large increase of valuations. It would not open up a new section for home builders. It would not give a street car line to the new cemeteries, for which there is great call.

All these things will be brought out at the public hearing which the council will have to give before any action can be taken. At this hearing the whole people will have a chance to be heard and the matter will be fully discussed.

There has been talk of bringing the Berkshire company into northern Berkshire, and there has also been talk of a consolidation between the Berkshire, and Hoosac Valley companies. Neither of these things are at all probable. But two companies will run their cars over each other's tracks. The Berkshire company will probably run their cars to North Adams, and the Hoosac Valley company will run cars to Pittsfield. This is practically assured, and should put a quietus on any effort to bring the Berkshire company into Adams by another route; any such effort is bound to meet with failure.

One probable result of all these extensions that has not been commented upon very much will be of particular interest. This is in the line of providing North Adams with parks and outing places. The line to Kemp park will make that delightful spot available to the people, and the park is rich in possibilities for the future.

Another plan the company has in mind is to develop a large lake on the proposed Stamford line. It will be remembered that some time ago the Transcript reported that the land about the Clarksburg reservoir was being bought up. The owners are now in a position to greatly increase the size of the lake by the construction of a big dam. This is to be done, and when a park has been laid out on it shores, boathouses have been built and other attractions of a modern lake resort provided it will be the equal of any outing place in Berkshire county. This is one of the things North Adams has always needed, and it will add greatly to the enjoyment of summer life here for the whole community, rich as well as poor.

Company Buys Cars and Land

The street railway company has bought six new cars, two of which will be delivered within a few days. The two soon to come are single truck cars, while the four others are large double truck cars for the Cheshire extension.

The company has also bought additional land of C. A. Howland in the rear of the present car barns and power house at Zylonite, for the purpose of enlarging both barn and power house on account of the larger quarters demanded by the increase of power and equipment for the extensions.

Track Laying Begins

Work was begun in Cheshire this morning laying rails from the point where the work had stopped, and the grading is now completed, practically to the Adams town line.

Central Labor Union Leads Opposition

The Central Labor union of Adams is planning to conduct formal opposition to the extension of the tracks of the Hoosac Valley street railway through the streets recently petitioned for in that town in connection with the Church street extension to Adams. The regular meeting of the union will be held in Adams this evening, and at a special meeting yesterday it was decided to set a time for the meeting at tonight's regular meeting. It will be a mass meeting, called in the opera house under the auspices of the C. L. U., for the purpose of expressing a protest.

DEATH OF SILAS MASON

He Was One of Southern Vermont's Most Prominent Citizens

Silas Maton of Hartwellville, Vt., died this morning at 2 o'clock at his home in that town, aged 75 years. He had been more or less out of health all summer, but was able to attend to his business till within a short time before his death, and was in this city week before last. But few here heard of his illness and the news of his death came as a surprise to this community, where he was well known.

Mr. Mason had lived at Hartwellville for 50 years and was one of the best known men in southern Vermont. For many years he had been engaged in the lumber business, and he also kept a store at Hartwellville. He held the office of postmaster there for many years and was prominent in every way He had held nearly every office in the gift of the town and had served in the Vermont senate. At the time of the civil war he was active in support of the government and did much to encourage men to go to the front. He was an ardent republican and was always ready to do what he could to advance the interests of his party. He was a great admirer of the Grand Army and was an associate member of C. D. Sanford post of this city, whose camp fires he frequently attended and at whose gatherings he often spoke. He was also a prominent Mason and was a member of St. Paul commander, K. T., of this city, with which he recently went to the Knights Templar field day at Worcester. He was well known all through this section. He had done business with the Adams national bank of this city continuously for over 50 years, something which can be said of very few men.

He leaves a widow, who was his second wife, and three daughters, Mrs. M. O. Hicks of Readsboro, Vt., Mrs. E. B. Blake of Greenfield and Mrs Van Vechten, wife of Dr. Van Vechten, who lives in New York state.

An Old Piano

Cluett & Sons have on exxhibition in the window of their store on State street a very handsome specimen of one of the early Chickering pianos. The piano was made in 1828, and as Jacob Chickering made his first piano in 1823, the piano ranks as one of the oldest. It has real ivory keys and a handsome mahogany case. Its range is six octaves, and the tone is remarkably good. The instrument was first sold to Charles Tufts of Charlestown.

THE FIRST RALLY

Socialist-Labor Candidate For Governor Addresses Small Audience

The first rally of the fall political season in this city was held in Foresters' hall in the Father Mathew building last evening when Michael T. Barry, candidate for governor of the Socialist-Labor party spoke to about 50 workingmen who hardly filled the hall selected for the meeting.

Fred Hodecker of Adams presided and introduced the candidate, who spoke as follows:

Some people confound anarchy and socialism, but the anarchist could not live in any true socialist paty. Anarchy stands for the rights of the individual against society: socialism believes in the rights of society as against the individual. The anarchist could no more live in socialism than a fly in hell.

As for our campaign in this state I know that I shall be working as usual at my trade after the election is over. I am not seeking votes after the usual manner of candidates. I want the vote of no man who does not understand and believe in our doctrines. All others might be with us today and against us tomorrow. Our aim is to help along a great cause.

There can be no real labor union without the political arm. It is bound to be incompetent. The workingmen of the labor-union is against the capitalist every day in the year except election day when he does his master's bidding.

The speaker also expressed the belief that the party known as the social democracy has gone to much into municipal campaigns and that Josiah Quincy would get the votes of that party so generally this year that the party will disappear and the socialist-labor party will be left as it is, the only true party of socialsim in the state.

Flynn-Callahan

A large number of friends and relatives attended the wedding of Patrick Flynn and Catherine Callahan in St. Francis church this morning. Rev. Fr. Flynn performed the ceremony and mass was celebrated. The sponsers were Miss Catherine Powers and Patrick Doherty.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Flynn are well known young people, though Mrs. Flynn has lived in this city only eight months, having come here from Hoosick Falls. Mr. Flynn is a cutter in the Canedy-Clark shoe factory.

BOISTEROUS DRUNK SAYS HE WAS TEMPORARILY INSANE

But That Defense Didn't Go With Special Justice Parkhurst. A Religious Scoffer Arrested

For Monday morning in the police court the number of drunks was conspicuously small, there being only two representatives of the usual contingent. One of these was Andrew Gorman, a young man arrested in Clarksburg early Sunday morning. Shortly before 3 o'clock the Leonard family of that town were aroused by some one pounding on the front door. Mr. Leonard refused admittance to the disturber, but the latter persisted in making a disturbance and trying to effect on entrance. Mr. Leonard's daughter ran to the house of a neighbor, Andrew J. Cox, for aid. Mr. Cox and Mr Leonard loaded the boisterous young man into a team and drove him to the house of the Clarksburg officer, where he was placed under arrest and taken to the police station in this city.

This morning Gorman told wierd tales about dizzy spells and temporary insanity, but nevertheless was fined $2 for drunkenness and $5 for disturbing the peace. After he was sentenced Justice Parkhurst called him up and imprsesed upon him the folly of denying that he was drunk in the face of the conclusive evidence of three witnesses.

The other drunk, an old man, from Blackinton, was picked up Saturday night at Braytonville in a helpless condition. His case was continued. One case of expired probation was placed on file, and two others which were defaulted Saturday were similarly disposed of.

Shortly after court adjourned this morning Officer Belleveau brought into the police station Fred Mattison, who will be arraigned tomorrow morning on the charge of disturbing a religious meeting. Some time ago Fred was converted by the rescue mission but has since dropped back into skeptical ways of thinking, and now exerts an evil influence on the meetings by his scoffing.

DRIVING CLUB'S RACES

C. L. Whitney's Cinderella and Dr. Stafford's Belinda Won

There was a small attendance at the driving club's matinee on the fair grounds Saturday afternoon, the weather being a little too cool for comfort; but in spite of the cool breezes good sport was enjoyed by the enthusiasts present. There were only two events, one being a special race in which horses that were to have gone in different classes were bunched and a race for gentlemen's driving horses driven to buggies. The special race was won by C. L. Whitney's Cinderella in two straight heats. Elmer Hewitt's Lawn and T. J. Scully's Little King took second and third respectively in the first and second heats and divided second money. The race for gentlemen's drivers was won by Dr Stafford's Belinda in two straight heats, with Homer Haskins' Homer H. second both times. Mr. Wood's Vanderback was third in the first heat, and was then drawn. The race was well contested by Belinda and Homer H. and was much enjoyed by the spectators. The heats were half-mile. The best time in the special class was 1.20, and in the gentlemen's driving class, 1.15½.

The club expects to have several more meets before winter. The members feel that they have had a successful season, though the financial returns have not been large. But, as was stated at the opening of the season, the races were for sport rather than for profit, and the members of the club have spent many pleasant afternoons in speeding and developing their horses.

SNOWSTORM ON GREYLOCK

It Drove Prof. Barton and His Class from the Summit Yesterday

Professor George H. Barton of the Massachusetts institute of technology, who came to this city Saturday on the excursion from Boston with a party of his pupils from the teachers' school of science of the Boston society of natural history, as mentioned in this paper, had a bad day for the Greylock trip. There were about 68 teachers in the party and about half of them returned to Boston the same night. They made a trip over Hoosac mountain, accompanied by the professor, who gave short lectures on geology at interesting points. At Hoosac tunnel those who were to return home took the train and Professor Barton returned to this city, spending the night at the Wellington with about 36 of the party who were to go to Greylock with him yesterday. They got an early start, leaving the city at 5.45 in the morning, in Flagg's wagons, A six-horse, four-horse and a two-horse wagon were used. The weather was very bad, the party starting off in rain, and when they reached the clearing commonly known as Harrison's landing they ran into a severe snow storm, which continued all the time they were on the mountain. The snow was 2½ inches deep on the summit and it snowed and blew so that nothing could be seen except the storm itself. The party procured lunch and coffee at the shanty on the summit and returned at once to the hotel, where they had dinner and left for Boston at 1.25, in the afternoon.

Professor Barton lectured on geology at the normal school Saturday evening to the party that accompanied him and the normal school students. The Saturday part of the trip was highly enjoyable and that of yesterday would have been equally so if it had not been for the storm, which whitened the mountain tops for the first time this fall.
